First Impressions

After using the application for the first time, my client mentioned that he found that having all the vital information in one singular application facilitated the registration process of the patients, as well as the creation of the consultation process. He considered that the solicited data included in the application are vital to creating a consultation and treating a patient. He also found useful how important data is displayed, and especially liked the Consultations Frequency Scene, since according to what was said in the interview, information on that scene will help him plan events vacations, or days off.

My client mentioned that although the application is to a certain degree easy to understand and use, he would need some more time to get used to how the application works and how it is distributed.

Feedback and Suggestions

Although my client is currently happy with how the application turned out, he considered that in the future, he might need the application to include more functionalities than the application already owns.

He mentioned that including the ability to upload images into the patients' information could be useful and would complement the application. He wishes to include important medical images such as CT scans (computed tomography), x-rays, and laboratory scans, and this way attends more efficiently to his patients.
